The conference theme Embracing Changes Together reflects the emergent need to join all educational forces, namely researchers in physics education, teachers, and policymakers, to address through a collaborative effort the challenges upfront physics education emerging from the rapidly changing world and the urgent need of a paradigm shift in physics education at schools and in physics teacher education.

The organizers would like to invite teachers from all over the world to participate in the 4th WCPE as collaborators and partners of physics education researchers, presenting their own work and classroom inquiries to the international community of physics educators. We encourage physics education researchers and tertiary-level educators to seek interested teachers in their countries and to encourage them to participate in the 4th WCPE with their ideas for innovative teaching and inquiry results of the reflection on their own teaching practice.
